

THE TUESDAY

December 2, 2008

Cynthia Roe, Principal

Dear Mountain Oak Community,

This Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are important afternoons to meet with your child's class teacher. Conferences are important for both the parent and the teacher. Clear and accurate information about the students needs, progress, challenges and abilities is important for any team to share in creating the best opportunity for the student to have a healthy, successful experience of education, after all most children are in school for 13 years of their life and many go on to higher education. The more clarity the teacher-parent team has together, the chance for student success is greater.

visiting Eurythmist will offer a workshop/ presentation for parents. Doing your Eurythmy is invigorating and awe inspiring. I hope to see many parents take advantage of this opportunity. At 6:00pm a guest speaker from California will give a talk specifically for the parents of students at schools inspired by Waldorf education. The title of the presentation is "Living Waldorf Pedagogy: Timeless Themes and Timely Challenges" This is great topic at this parent-teacher conference time to better understand the education your child is receiving. I hope to see a big turn-out for this event. George Hoffeker is dynamic and insightful speaker.

Warmly,

Cindy Roe
